

FACILITY: In operation since 1972, ExxonMobil's Anchorage Chemical Terminal is a distribution and storage terminal located in Port Allen, Louisiana, across the Mississippi River from ExxonMobil's Petrochemical processing facilities. It is owned by ExxonMobil and operated by Intercontinental Terminals Company since 1977.

WORKFORCE: The plant is staffed by 24 employees and 3 full-time contract personnel.

OPERATIONS: The Anchorage Chemical Terminal provides storage and distribution of petrochemical products for ExxonMobil's Baton Rouge Chemical Plant via all modes of transportation.

PRODUCTS HANDLED: Dilute Propylene, Chemical grade Propylene, Refined Butadiene, Crude Butadiene and Isobutylene

STORAGE: Two 50,000bbl refrigerated Butadiene tanks
One 40,000 bbl ambient Butadiene sphere
Six 30,000 gallon Propylene vessels

MODES OF TRANSPORTATION:

Rail:

- Service by Union Pacific Railroad
- 15 Spot Rack, serving all products
- Leased Switch Engine for interplant switching
- Rail Yard (65 – 30K gallon capacity tank cars)
- 2 Union Pacific Railroad Lease Tracks (67 – 30K gallon tank cars)

Pipeline:

- Two 6" Butadiene Pipelines:
 - Refined and Crude to / from EM's BRCP
- One 4" Crude Butadiene Pipeline from Dow
- One 6" Chemical Grade Propylene Pipeline to / from EM's BRCP / Lou-Tx pipeline
- Two Dilute Propylene Pipelines
 - One 6" to / from Sorrento Salt Dome
 - One 4" from BRPO / BRPP

Truck:

- Single Shared bay for loading/unloading
 - Refined Butadiene (loading)
 - Dilute Propylene (unloading)

Marine:

- 40 foot Natural Draft Dock, capable of handling approved ships up to 48K DWT, 520 FT LOA and 30,000 bbl barges

MILESTONES: Currently have 9.5 years without a lost time incident and 8.5 years without a recordable injury.

ACT MAJOR PHASES OF DEVELOPMENT:

- 1972 Crude Butadiene Sphere 697 Construction
- 1977 Refrigerated Butadiene Tanks 1670 and 1671 Construction
- 1981 Propylene Storage Tanks and Tank Car Rack Construction
- 1989 Marine Dock Construction
- 1993 Main Office Building and Truck Rack Construction
- 2009 Warehouse Construction

For additional information, contact ExxonMobil Baton Rouge Public & Government Affairs at (225) 977-8393.